

Restart

In my senior thesis, I create a short animation about my volunteer experience to remember the most crucial moment in my life.

For the first time, I'm praised and recognized for creating something that I truly love.

I end up becoming a pretty famous freelancer who travels around to collect people's stories.

Whenever someone asks me "How to be a confident and creative artist like you?" I reply: "Neither confidence nor creativity are created but found."

The End.
